

Consent to Participate & Statement of Confidentiality

Our staff and volunteers respect the privacy of our members. Cancer Support Community Los Angeles (CSCLA) adheres to professional, legal, and ethical standards of confidentiality established by professional organizations and state law. Legal and ethical exceptions to confidentiality include: a clear or present danger to harm oneself or another, knowledge of the abuse or neglect of a minor child, elder or dependent/incapacitated adult, or responses to a court subpoena or as otherwise required by law.

We ask that our members respect each other's privacy and do not disclose the identity of others who participate at CSCLA, or what is said in a support group or program. However, we are not able to ensure confidentiality of all members, as we would have no way to enforce it. Please read the below policies for the confidentiality, comfort, and safety of our members.

I understand that the CSCLA staff and volunteers will be respectful of my privacy but cannot ensure the confidentiality adherence of other members.

I understand that the CSCLA reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to refuse or discontinue the use of its facilities to any person.

I understand that the CSCLA is a training site so there may occasionally be students or professionals observing or participating in programs.

I understand that the CSCLA does not provide medical advice or assistance of any kind.

In consideration of my acceptance as a member of CSCLA and the use of online services provided without charge, I agree that I will not take any legal action against the CSCLA, its program partners, its officers, agents, employees or any other participant or support person at CSCLA, based in any way on what is said or done by such officers, agents, employees and participants at CSCLA in a good faith effort to provide those services.

I fully understand that CSCLA and program partners recommend that anyone participating in any exercise program check with their healthcare provider prior to participation to ensure that they are medically able to do so. Participation in any exercise program could result in injury or illness.

I agree to release, waive, discharge and hold harmless CSCLA and its program partners, affiliates, employees, officers, agents, independent contractors, volunteers and donors from any and all claims, actions, demands, liabilities, expenses (including attorneys' fees) and losses arising from bodily injury or illness, including, but not limited to, wrongful death, loss of services, loss of consortium, and all other damages that may arise out of participation in CSCLA programs.
